

Articling Student
Christensen Law Firm – Cambridge, Ontario

Christensen Law Firm restricts its practice to unsecured debt collection. The firm has pioneered mass litigation programs for large credit granters and is changing the way debt collection is done in Canada. We are looking to add an articling student to our current team of 10 licensees and 27 non-lawyer staff.

The ideal candidate will be interested in joining a non-traditional practice that will require a unique combination of legal and business skills. The responsibilities we expect you to take on and grow into after being called to the bar include preparing claims and motion materials, reviewing and responding to defences, motions and counter-claims, negotiating and settling matters, appearing at settlement conferences, trials and motions, preparing appeal materials and appearing in appellate courts, managing and directing a mass litigation portfolio, managing and leading a team of dedicated law clerks, legal assistants and other professionals, and conducting research and developing and implementing innovative legal approaches.

This position requires a persuasive communicator with strong legal, analytical, business, negotiation and people-management skills. The successful candidate will be self-motivated, independent, comfortable in a dynamic environment with changing priorities, be able to think and address problems strategically, and will have the skills necessary to manage a large case load.

The environment is casual, friendly, and geared towards long-term career development. The compensation package includes a competitive base salary, performance bonus, and a benefits package.
